REASONS.

There are forty reasons why men dress well, some of them decidedly curious should they be probed.

Expediency of odd sorts, serves to accomplish certain ends and the like.

Most men, we trust, rise to the higher plane of neatness and good taste. A well bred man pleases himself and enjoys a satisfaction in knowing he attracts no attention by too little dress or too much. In our very full supply of NEW FALL BUSINESS SUITS, DRESS SUITS, FALL OVERCOATS, BOYS' and CHILDREN'S SUITS, you will find the happy medium, that every gentleman of good taste and every mother of refinement, who wishes to see her boys well dressed, enjoys.

In answer to the enquiry so often asked, WHERE CAN I DO THE BEST? we would say, and prove it if necessary, that every dollar's worth of goods that is delivered to us, after being examined and found correct, is paid for, SPOT CASH. This, and a twenty years' experience in our business, knowing how to buy, where to buy, offsets any argument that has been and may be made by any of our competitors as to their offering extraordinary bargains without any good reason on the r park as to their superior ability, financially or otherwise, to procure them.

Attempted Assassination of a Minis SHEELEVILLE, III., Oct. 31 .- Considerable excitement has been caused in this city by the attempted assassination o the wife of Rev. Jasper L. Douthit. The facts of the affair are about as follows: Rev. J. L. Douthit is editor of a religious and Probibition paper in this city called Our Hest Words, and has been making things hot for the saloon-keepers and their friends, and also caused in the sathoir friends, and also caused all the sa-loon-keepers to be indleted by the last grand jury for selling fiquor to habit-nals. This caused a bitter feeling to spring up against him, and some per-son wrote a letter, threatening to kill him and burn his property. Mr. Doublit offered a reward for the writer of the letter and nothing more the writer of the letter, and nothing more was heard of the matter until Saturday night, when the wife of George Day went to the house of Mr. Douthit had made an assault upon Mrs. Douthit with a carving knift. A flerce strucche ensued. when Mrs. Douthitt's daughter came to her rescue and overpowered the assailant and held her prisoner until the police came and took Mrs. Day in charge. Two Woman Acrested for Highway Rob Sygveese, N. Y., Nov. 1.-The northwestern part of Oneida County is all excitement over a daring attempt at highway robbery by two women, who are venting a complidat until this late day. On the night of September 12 Hugh riding on the highway leading from Northwestern to Hillside. It was late and very dark when they reached a lonely spot where the roadway entered the forest, the horse was suddenly halted by, as was supposed at first, two men on horse back. Our of them placed a revolver at Do rate's head, ordered him to throw up his hands and deliver up his money and valuables. Dornty recognized the voice as that of a woman, and telling her his name declared that he had no money or valuables with him. He then lit a match and showed his face. He also got a good look at the faces of both the "Inghwaymen," and declares he recognized them as Mrs. Susan Scoville and Mr-4 Mary Jane Dinna. They then told him to pass on and say nothing as to what occurred, under penalty of causher him serious trouble. On Bridge vening warrants were issued for the arrest of the two women, and it is believed that the contribution tall this time has een intimide of by the threats of the Mrs. Scoville tends a lock at Western-pair vesterday. They gave bail in the sum of $1,000 and will be examined on Thursday. Mrs. Scoville makes light of the affair and said that she and the Duna girl were only out on a little lark. It was some time in the evening when they concluded to go to Hillside, about six miles, to make merry with a hotel-keeper. They got two horses out of a pasture and, having no saddle, tode astride the horses' backs To inde in this training some change in their apparel was necessary, but, she dechired, they donned no garments of men's wear except hats. It was on their return at two o'clock in the morning that they "held up" Dornty and his companion. She says that they had no idea of robbing any one.

Alaska-A Wonderful Gold Mine-A Poorly Governed Country. WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.-Mr. John J. Chickering, of this city, who has just returned from a visit to Alaska, gives some very interesting particulars of affairs in that faraway territory. Speaking of the mining prospects, he said: "The mines are at present an unknown quantity, with the exception of some places at Juneau and a few other places, and the finely developed 'Treadwell' mine at Douglass George reviewed the parade in Union Square. It rained heavily during the Island. This is, I believe, the biggest crusher in the world-a 120-stamp mill. The mine is owned by Mr. Tredwell, who discovered it, Senator Jones and some San Francisco capitalists. Blaine and Sherman. WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 .- Some of Mr. Blaine's friends are calling attention to the greater enthusiasm of the Maine statesman's reception in Pennsylvania over that which was given to Senator Sherman, They look upon Mr. Sherman as the strongest rival the Piumed Knight will encounter at the convention in 1888, and are, therefore, highly gratified at this contrast. They know that the great question will be, as it has been for many years, who can carry New York? There is a general belief than Sherman is exceptionally strong with the New York business men, and for this reason Blaine's friends fear him most. I lis going to Philadelphia right in the curred more then a month ago. The track of Mr. Blaine, seemed to bring threats of the comen succeeded in preconfidentially express great satisfaction at the result. the people away from Mr. Sherman or any other man who might be pitted against him. There is no other man in the country, they declare, who can hold can. In Maine his per-onality was a power in the campaign, and in Penusyl vania he had aroused the greatest enthuslasm merely by his "presence." The coming of Mr. Sherman into the field, they say, only emphasized the popularity

It is so whenever Mr. Blaine enters a canvass; his personal magnetism draws from everybody else. It was this, they say, that caused the ill-feeling of Senator Logan toward him. Blaine took all the thunder in the 1884 campaign. And it is this, they claim, that will convince the Republican convention that he can noll more votes than any other candidate they could put in the field. The welcome he has received shows to his friends' satispolitics.

The Oleomargarine Tax with She is said to be a widow and lives flow in a small house by the side garine law will go into effect to-morrow, and the Internal Revenue Bureau has completed all the arrangements necessary for its enforcement. The demand for stamps has been very great, and the indications are that a large amount of the commodity will be put on the market next week. The production of oleomargarine for domestic consumption is estimated by Commissioner Miller at the rate of 100,000,000 pounds a year, and the amount exported is also believed to

Powderly and the Catholic Bishops

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 31.—The Sun this morning has the following: General Master Workman T. V. Powderly of the Knights of Labor, was in the city Thursday, and called on Cardinal Gibbons at his residence, where a conference of prelates was held to discuss questions af in the United States, principally the re-lation and duties of Catholies who are Knights of Labor. Mr. Powderly had two luterviews with the cardinal, and laid before him the constitution and by laws of the order. He also spoke of th purposes of the knights, and how, in his opinion, they were an organization not included in the proscription of the church against secret societies which promise blind obedience. The atterances of Mr. Powderly were executly noted and pre-sented to the church bishops. The visit of the General Master Workman was wholly unexpected and unknown among the Kaights in this city, who did not look for him before uext week.

It was known he would visit Cardina

Glibons in obedience to instructions from the convention of the Kulghts of Labor, held recently at Richmond. Mr. Powderly went from Richmond to Lawrence, Mass, from which place it is supposed he came quietly to Baltimore. It is said he went away from Bultimore as sured that his organization would not be interlered with. Several Catholic priest said yesterday the Koights of Labor is a lawful organization. Mr. Powderly is a strict Catholic and a weekly communicant, and would not countenance any society which, in its workings, antag onized the decrees of the Catholic church Even John J. McCurtney, district master workman of Assembly 41, who is a bosom friend of Mr. Powderly, did not know he was coming to Bultimore. Mr McCartney, who is also a Cataolic, had a lengthy interview this week with Mgr McColgan, paster of 48t, Peter's Church The monsigner sent for the district mas ter workman and had him explain in de ail the constitution of the Knights o Labor, their attitude in boycotts and other important features of the organization. Then Mgr. McColgan wrote the he most interesting will cases ever tried in New England closed here in the Supe rior Court yesterday morning, Judge Bearesley on the bench. The case has been before the court in this city for over a month. It came up here as an appeal from probate in the matter of Caroline J. Welton, of Waterbury, the wealthy and eccentric young lady who climbed up Long's Peak in Colorado two years ago this month and was caught in a squal and frozen to death. During the latter years of her life Miss Welton was an intimate friend of Henry Bergh. She was an ardent admirer of Bergh, and looked upon him as one of the greatest reformers of the age. When she made her will in 1878 she bequeathed the bulk of her handsome fortune, amount-ing to nearly $200,000, to Mr. Bergh for the use of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Miss Welton only remembered her friends to a very small extent. The will was so manifestly out of proportion that some of the relatives determined to break it if possible. The will and the codicil ther lo were admitted to probable in Judge Billette's court in Waterbury, and the case came up before Judge Beadesly and a jury in the shape of an appeal from probate. The appeal was brought in the hame of George R. Welton of Waterbury a son of George R. Welton, who was the original applicant, but has since died and Mrs. Horace Johnson, a cousin of the deceased. Dr. Vosburgh preached last night un the consequences of vice in this world. His text was Romans vi: 21-"For the end of these things is death." He showed clearly how thoroughly vice blasts and blights all earthly prospects of usefulness and happiness. He traced its consequences in all its lines, upon physical health, the mental, financial, social, moral and spiritual life of man. There were hundreds of young men present, and they gave the speaker the closest attention. The subject for next Sunday

The are not half the rinks there were a ronage is good and the people are pleased. I do not propose to do anything startling or wonderful, but I am going to try to establish a pleasant place of amusement, where ladies and gentlemen, parents und children, may meet for heslithful exercise and pleasant recreation, and I would respectfully ask your occoperation. All will be admitted subject to rules and regulations. Mr. Kae Ringland will have charge of the door and he has instructions to refuse admission to objectionable parties. His honor, the mayor, has appointed a special policeman, who will be on duy at the rink. Tuesday evening no gentleman will be admitted without a lady, and no gentleman a special policeman, who will be on duly at the rink. Tuesday evening no gentleman will be admitted without a lady, and no gentleman will skate without gloves and a skating cap. This is especially for Tuesday evening or club night. At the mathness parents not skating, but accompanying children, will be admitted free. In regard to music, it is sufficient to say Goodman's band will be in attendance both evening and at matiness, and they have arranged new music especially adapted for the occasion Durins part of the evening all will be seated and the band will give some operatic selections. DANGEROUSLY STABBED.

The following appeared in the Laddo nis (Mo) Herald of October 28: Tuesday morning about 11 o'clock the little town of Laddonia was thrown into a stage of excitement by the news that

Wm. Bybee, proprietor of the Laddonia House, had, while in a rage, severely stab-bed B. M. Greenman, proprietor of a marble works, at No. 3249 Gravois Ave., St. Louis, near the heart. The stabbing store and who is to blame and what caus ed the quarrel is more than we can tell but it seems that Greenman had formerly stopped at Bybee's hotel, and they had trouble about Bybee keeping back Greenman's portfolio, Bybee claiming Green-man had been telling that he (Bybee) had stolen his portfolio, also calling Green-man a g—d d—d liar, etc; but whether this is true or not we cannot state. The fight commenced in Loren's store and fight commenced in Logan's store, and an other, but is a reaming detective without authority. The fellow accused Cratty wrongfully of the crime.

The Cyclone of Friday said: "We feel about as certain that Johns will be defeated as we do that we live." Admitting that the Cyclone does "feel" that way what does it amount to as a prediction? A good many people hereabouts entertain the belief that the Cyclone is hardly conscious as to whether it is living or dead And we want to assure the voters of Macon county that the Republicans of Pleasant View, and a good many Demograts, too, don't "feel" that way. Corey Johns has a host of friends here in both parties, and he will be the next senato Another thing we want to call attention

We have made a careful cauvass of the territory mentioned, and are satisfied that said claim is groundless. Every Re-publican voter in Pleasant View will vote for Evans, and also in Blue Mound, with is being made to win Republican votes for Donahey, and they are told that he is Mr. Trainer's choice; that he assisted Mr. qualified for the position than Evans, &c. Now, if Mr. Donahey is so far superior to Evens in educational attainments, and so Superintendent why is it that Mr. Trainer did not employ Donahey to teach in the county institutes, and also send him to work in the institutes of other count e instead of choosing Mr. Evans for this work? Geordic' enjoyed camp life in all its phases, and especially loved to dabble in the mysteries of the cuisine. whereat he was something of an adept. The success here attumed led to greator and more claborate efforts at home; he was forever pottering in the kitchen, trying numerous and varied experiments, and even accumulated a library of cookery and undertook the study of French, with a view to enlarging the boundaries of his knowledge. On one occasion he gave a Christmas dumer to a number of his old cronies, every whit of which was the preparavoted a success, he became so egotistical, setting himself up as a culinary critic on all occasions, that good Mistress McTavish was torced to exclude han from the kitchen altogether, on pain of her own resignation of all household offices. Forced to capitulate, he gave over his practices, save only when the "guid wife was frac hante" upon her anunal visit to friends

On one of the latter occasions I was invited to partake of two new concections—"broiled sausage" and "dack soup"—which, I regret to say, were flat failures and most horrible "messes" A few days later and I was again favored with an invitation to dine, and accepted only on condition he would confine himself to plain dishes, such only as were supposed to be familiar in preparation to the veriest tyro. This time it was "rice sonp." "O yes!" he knew all about it. "Ne," he had never made any, but it was, "only a bit of stock, a bone, some hot water, salt, a dash of pepper, a little purely, summer savory, and vegatables to flavor, and its rice secure.

etables to flavor, and just rice enough for two, to thicken it! Any fool can make that" At the proper moment, as supposed, a quantity of dry and unwashed rice was poured into the pot. He had forgotten, else never knew, that this cereal increased in bulk several times in cooking, and as for me I made no pre-tentions to knowledge of any kind in such matters. Having thus gotten things under way to his satisfaction. he typped his chair against the kitchen wall for a quiet pipe, while I adjourned to a book and easy-chair in the next

Some little time clapsed, when I was recalled by a great commotion in the kitchen a sizzling and hissing interspersed with expletives, and an odor wast horrible. Here was Geordie busily engaged over the stove, brandishing a huge skimmer, with which he was heaping up dishes with half-cooked ties, as it potted in fleecy clouds over the top of the pot, and that, too, much taster if in he could remove it. Alrealy nult a dozen pie-tins and a compared bowls were heaped with the start hous cereal, but the bulk of the treperous stuff was manifestly ino sairs limits, with a mullered thema, he seized the kettle by its d and flung the whole affair through the open window, and shoepishly suggested we dine at the nearest hotel. As luck would have it, Mistress Mc-Tay is a returned a week later, and several days before expected—"as she had no business to do," so her lord and master declared "That was the very day he intended to clean up! Imagine the scene presented to a thrifty, orderly housewite's vision! Naturally Mistress "Sadie" dissolved was, and finally the shower passed over under the pledge of a new silk and new by mn and psalm book, articles that she had long coverted. Mindful of the fruits of victory, she immediately began a tour of inspection and enumeration of damages, while her husband stood meekly by, pocket book in hand, and noted her demands Meantime a strange odor pervaded the kitchen and saluted her nostrils. Various inquiries failed to reveal any cause therefor. Geordie thought it might be a new brand of tobacco he was smoking, for Donald, down at the shop, had gotten out of twist and sent up a paper of t avendish instead. Suddealy she threw open the cupboard-door, when stood revealed the torgotten dishes of half-cooked, but now de-eaying, mouldy, and fermenting rice! "George McTavisn! what the world does this mean?" exclaimed his spouse between wonderment and anger, acompanied by a warning snift. "Hum-I - ah - oh - the dickens! Hang it all, Sadie, I was making some rice-soup the other day, and the grocer made a mistake and put up a new kind of rice-the South American 1 think they call it—and it—"

"Why, George! I thought you knew better than that! You put too much in the pot- that was the trouble."

"No, I did not! It was a new kind -South American, Brazilian, or something of that sort." "Nonsense, George McTavish! Don't tell me' You just used too much; that's all. You can't deceive me with your humbug. You know and I know that you used too much rice! Why, you did not even have the sense to wash it, and the dirt sticks out all over!' "Confound it, Sadie! Do you think

I don't know how to make rice-soup?"
"That I do! and, what is more, I "But I tell you it was a new kind-

"Fudge! Tell me nothing. Have not I got eyes? You got too much; that is all there is about it! And if where it will do the most good. Your old cronies would be only too glad to get hold of the story to pay you off for old scores, after all the boasting you have done. You a cook—a man that can toast a poor little trout on a bit of bark, or roasts a potato in the ashos, and calls that cooking!" and her nose assumed an angle of forty-five, calculated to express alike contempt and disdain. This was too much. Geordie came over to my quarters for consolation, acknowledging himself beaten at every turn. The joke was a good one, but it must be reserved for his own telling. And so I was sworn to secreey, while he declared he would yet convince Mistress S. that she was in the wrong -and he did! A month or so later Mistress Sadi informed her lord that it he would provide the rice, she would undertake a soup that would prove satisfactory, adding, with a spice of Mother Eve George, so that you won't get caugh in a nasty scrape. like thit last again."

"All right, Sadie! Live and learn, you know; and really that did appear to be a bad fluke of mine." And off he went to the grocer, where a pound of rice was got and deposited in the capacious recesses of his coat; then another ordered, of like dimensions, and placed m the opposite pocket. Back he came, and marching into the kitchen one package was delivered into his wife's hands, with: "Now show me how you do it, Sadie."

She tore open one corner of the backage, after the manner of her sex. shook a little into a tea-cup, washed it drained, and emptied into the pot.

"Pooh!" said her spouse: "I don't see any thing strange about that You wash the rice, which don't matter in the least anyway, and use quite a bit more than I did." And as she turned to place the package in the cupboard, he whipped out its fellow, that was already opened, and poured the entire contents into the kettle, then retired to the garden to await developments. In time a loud scream, proceeding from the kitchen, announced the suc-cess of the plot. He rushed back to find his wife standing before the fire with unlifted hands, amuzed and helm less, watching the rice pouring over the top of the pot and travelling over the stove in all directions. "Oh, George -George-the rice!" she exclaimed, as she sank into a chair. Geordie prompt ly seized the offending utensil, and sent it flying where it had gone once before under like circumstances, and then turning to his wife, with a much-abused air, said: 'There now, Sadie! I hope you will believe me anoth-er time. I told you it was a new kind of rice!

For three years Geordie kept the secret well. But one evening before an assembled company he told the story as here narrated. When he begnn, "Sadie" was puzzled—there was no joke so far as she knew. But when he told how he placed the extra pound in the pot an the result it wrought, she burst into laughter and shricked: "May I never The fool I was—I believed him."—Tid
